

It's a wild, Wild Wiki World: The Pros, Cons, Ins and Outs of Wikis

Pre-Viewing	What is your background knowledge of Wikipedia?
Slide 2	Wikipedia is the ____th most visited site on the Internet with ____% of all pages visited daily being Wikipedia articles. It's entirely written and edited by _____. You don't have to be registered to _____.
Slide 3	Some say...
Slide 4	Others say... What is your opinion of Wikipedia?
Slide 6	Software like Wikipedia has been around for a long time. It's generally known as _____ or _____, and it takes many forms
Slide 11	Wiki software provides _____. Wiki means _____, _____, or _____ in Hawaiian.
Slide 12	What problems do you see? What advantages do you see?
Slide 13	Wikipedia provides _____ Unlike traditional encyclopedias, Wikipedia isn't _____.
Slide 14	The very fact that _____ creates both _____ and a set of _____.

Slide 15	What prompted the Wikipedia controversy in 2005?
Slides 16-17	Why did Congress take note of Wikipedia in 2005? How did Marty Meehan's attempt at sanitizing his Wikipedia biography backfire?
Slide 18	Note two examples of plagiarism involving Wikipedia
Slide 19	What changes did Wikipedia make in response to these incidents?
Slide 22	How did students at a high school in Minnesota use Wikipedia to reveal the true identity of Caspian James Chrichton Stuart IV?
Slide 24	What were the results of the expert study which compared the accuracy of Wikipedia against Britannica? Of the 42 reports that were returned, the results showed that there was an average of ___ errors in each Wikipedia article and ___ in Britannica. Over all there were ___ serious errors in Wikipedia and ___ in Britannica along with ___ minor errors in Wikipedia and ___ in Britannica.
Post Viewing	What is your view of Wikipedia? How do you see yourself using it in the future? If we took Art Wolinsky's advice and created a wiki in this class, what sort of a wiki could we create? What ideas do you have?

